

Fig. S3. Mean observed migration intensity by date and temperature close to surface. For a given date, the highest migration intensities occurred where temperatures close to the surface were warmest, especially at higher latitudes. This figure summarizes raw data and does not show model output.